

Prayer After Receiving

Eternal God, we give you thanks for this holy mystery in which you have given yourself to us. May we be transformed into your image. Grant that we may go into the world in the strength of your Spirit, to give ourselves for others, in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE FAMILY SERIES

"[Parents], do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord." (Ephesians 6:4, NIV)

We're doing a sermon series in February on families. As always, we will be sensitive to the variety of families we have in our congregation. We recognize that we have many single people at various stages of singleness. We recognize that not every family has children or grandchildren. We recognize that we have individuals who are struggling with the dysfunction of their families. We promise there will be plenty of wisdom and insight from God's Word in this series for everyone regardless of their family situation. After all, we're all a part of the "family of God!"

One of the neglected practices in family life is determining the core values that will shape your household. Many people unconsciously adopt the values that were unwittingly passed on from their family of origin. Sometimes, the resulting dysfunction is proof of the biblical saying that the sins of one generation are passed on to the generations that follow! What if we consciously determined the values that were the most important to us and made a commitment to live out those values on a daily basis?

In Ephesians, Paul instructs parents not to exasperate their children. Other translations say not to "provoke your children to anger." I prefer The New International Version's use of the word "exasperate." The exasperation comes from an inconsistency in the values that are lifted up as the core. In one instance, we may praise our children for their competitiveness. In another instance, we may chastise them for being too aggressive in their pursuit of something. Without an undergirding value to help our children understand the difference between those two instances, our children become frustrated or exasperated. Maybe the family values behind both incidences are being the best they can be and not hurting others. Teaching the values determines the appropriate behavior.

Have you considered the values that drive your family? Would you be willing to make a list of the important values out of which you operate and then translate those values into how you want your family to interact with others? If you are willing, then after you've completed your list, invite your family or friends to reflect with you on those values. Inquire as to how faithful they perceive you are in fulfilling those values. Come to some agreement that you can draft as the core values of your family and then commit to living by

Prayer of Confession and Words of Forgiveness

Minister: Christ our Lord invites to his table all who love him, who earnestly repent of their sin and seek to live in peace with one another. Therefore, let us confess our sin before God and one another.

People: Merciful God, we confess that we have not loved you with our whole heart. We have failed to be an obedient church. We have not done your will, we have broken your law, we have rebelled against your love, we have not loved our neighbors, and we have not heard the cry of the needy. Forgive us, we pray. Free us for joyful obedience, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

All pray in silence

Kyrie 482

Lord, have mercy. Lord, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.

Minister: Hear the good news: Christ died for us while we were yet sinners; that proves God's love toward us. In the name of Jesus Christ, you are forgiven!

People: In the name of Jesus Christ, you are forgiven!

All: Glory to God. Amen.

Come to the waters all who are thirsty, O come and drink; this gift is free.
Come to the table all who are hungry. O come and feast; this gift is free.
Come to the tree of life, laden with fruit for you. O come and taste; this gift is free.
Come to the banquet hall, a place is set for you. O come and sit awhile; this gift is free.
Why do you buy food which cannot feed the soul, or labor on for that which will not make you whole?
Come unto me and taste the food I give. Come unto me so that your soul may live. (ref. Isaiah 55)

The Lord's Prayer
Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

Music During Communion
Anthem Thou, Who At Thy First Eucharist Did Pray
Orlando Gibbons, harm. R. Vaughan Williams

Thou, who at thy first Eucharist didst pray that all thy Church might be for ever one,
Grant us who gather now, as then, to say with longing heart and soul, "Thy will be done."
O may we all one bread, one body be, through this blest sacrament of unity.
For all thy church, O Lord, we intercede; make thou our sad divisions soon to cease;
Draw us the nearer each to each, we plead, by drawing all to thee, O Prince of Peace.
Thus may we all one bread, one body be, through this blest sacrament of unity.
So, Lord, at length when sacraments shall cease, may we be one with all thy church above,
One with the saints in one unbroken peace, one with thy saints in one unbounded love;
More blessed still, in peace and love to be one with the Trinity in Unity. (Wm. Harry Turton, alt.)
